Greenbacks were paper currency printed in green on the back issued by the United States during the American Civil War.

A banknote is a type of negotiable promissory note, made by a bank, payable to the bearer on demand. Banknotes were originally issued by commercial banks, which were legally required to redeem the notes for legal tender usually gold or silver coin when presented to the chief cashier of the originating bank. These commercial banknotes only traded at face value in the market served by the issuing bank. Commercial banknotes have primarily been replaced by national banknotes issued by central banks.

The even visual quality of the reading material being of paramount importance, each drawn character (called a glyph) must be even in appearance with every other glyph regardless of order or sequence. Also, if the typeface is to be versatile, it must appear the same whether it is small or large. Because of optical illusions that occur when we apprehend small or large objects, this entails that in the best fonts, a version is designed for small use.

About the font

Relato Sans is the other face of Relato Serif, being the sans more austere and aseptic. A humanistic type, with a contemporary cut, created for general use in texts and with a great variety of weights, which allow enough flexibility for demanding projects. It maintains many of the characteristics of its homologous such as proportions, the x height, the construction based on air lines of the italic, ornaments and so on. These details show coherence with the serif version, and at the same time reinforce its personality.

Languages

Afrikaans, Basque, Breton, Catalan, Danish, Dutch, English, Faroese, Finnish, French, Gaelic, German, Icelandic, Indonesian, Irish, Italian, Javanese, Malay, Norwegian, Portuguese, Sami, Spanish, Swahili and Swedish.
